PART I

Introduction

1. Congratulations!

With your decision to acquire a Welz Chi Generator® from HSCTI you have opened wide the door to a successful future.

The Welz Chi Generators® (orgone generators®) are an amazing new technology that is a combination of the recent discoveries in hyperspace\(^1\) physics with existing knowledge of orgone physics\(^2\). In the following, we are going to introduce you to this new technology systematically.

We will introduce you to the basic principles of the complex theories of this new technology first. This way you can gain an understanding of the nature of your device and what you can do with it! After this, it will be important that you follow the instructions of the exercises and practices in this manual, which are designed to make you familiar with the function of the device rapidly. This will ensure that it will be easier for you to work on situations that are of a complex nature. Finally, you will apply advanced methods of using your device and combine them with effective success strategies. Soon this new technology will appear as natural to you as it is easy to apply.

It is important that you work with this manual in a relaxed state of mind. Your device generates life force (orgone, chi, prana). It can be difficult for you to perceive (see, feel) this energy and work with it consciously, whenever you are distracted by other important or pressing situations. In the case of such situations, we suggest that you postpone your work with the device or that you use the device to help you get into a state of relaxation. Above all, practice patiently and with concentration, then it will be easy for you to perceive life force soon. It is important to know that perceiving life force is not required to set up the equipment for your success.

When using your Chi Generator® correctly and effectively, you will have a lifetime of success and satisfaction with it. In the course of time, you will certainly use your device for many different situations, including situations that are much beyond the scope of what we are going to show you in this manual. Your Chi Generator® is equipment with near-infinite flexibility. For instance, you can project life force in many ways: to humans, animals, plants, objects, and specific situations and trends towards results that you intend to achieve, as you will find out later. The only limit is your imagination.

After these introductory lines, we are going to talk about the life force that your generator is producing. It is helpful for you to understand some of the complex theories that are the basis for the technology of these devices, so that you can use them to their fullest capacity and potential. Be sure to work through all experiments and exercises that you find in this manual. Once you have done this, you will soon cherish the beneficial, relaxing, constructive and positive effects of your Chi Generator® and power radionics™ device.

2. Life Force and the Chi Generator®

During the course of human history, life force has received many names: In the East it was called Prana (India), Chi (China), Ki (Japan). In Hawaii, it was Mana, in the West it was Od (Karl von Reichenbach), Orgone (Reich), Animal Magnetism (Mesmer), Auxones (Waerland), and many others.

What is life force?

Orgone, Od, Prana, or Chi is an energy that is universally present in the universe. Its main characteristic is dynamic flow, and pulse: movement. In this respect, there is similarity with the electromagnetic energy.

For the accumulation of life force, certain materials proved to be very effective. When discovering life force more than 200 years ago, Franz Anton Mesmer called it animal magnetism, because he was well aware of a connection between life force and magnetism. Based on this knowledge he built the first accumulators of life force of which we know: Oaken barrels that he filled with iron filings. Wilhelm Reich, who was familiar with Mesmer’s work, used the term orgone for life force. He discovered that organic materials (he meant materials that contain carbon or silicone such as paper, wool, cotton, sand, or glass wool) attract and hold life energy while metal has the characteristic of attracting life force and then immediately repelling it. Reich used this dynamic interaction to build orgone accumulators: he built boxes with alternating layers of organic and metallic matter. The outside is organic while the innermost layer is metallic. He recognized that the capability to attract and store life force (orgone) increased with the increase of layers. Mesmer’s oaken barrels with iron filings then were single layer orgone accumulators.

\(^1\) Hyper space is a space that is defined by the laws of transfer of life energy with its specific characteristics and natural laws.

\(^2\) Physics of life energy. Wilhelm Reich coined the word “orgone” for life energy.

Karl Hans Welz, the inventor of the orgone generator® (Welz Chi Generator®) developed orgonite®, which is a material that uses a metal alloy with extremely strong attractive and repelling characteristics in combination with a special type of epoxy, plus a few other enhancing materials that will remain classified for the time being. This mixture has proven to be by far the most effective one for the accumulation and, in the case of the Welz Chi Generators®, the generation of life force, or orgone. All Welz Chi Generators are made with this material!

Therefore, with your Welz Chi Generator®, you have now a device that has been designed according to the newest knowledge of Orgone Physics. Naturally, it generates massive amounts of life force rather than just accumulating it. When you start working with your Welz Chi Generator® and perform the practices that we describe in this manual, you will soon realize how it feels to work with concentrated life energy. In fact, most humans feel the energy that comes from the output pipe immediately. Many can see it as well!

3. What is an orgone-radionics® device?

One line of our devices is pure Welz Chi Generators®, i.e., these devices exclusively generate life force: the LPOG-series, the JU 99 series and the Performer series. Another line is combinations of one or more Chi Generators® with a radionics device: the RAD series and the ATGS 3000.

What, then, is Radionics?

Radionics is a technology of interaction with the mind and its capability to abstract (more details about this later), with the help of which you can act upon people, groups, living beings, and situations, at a distance. You can achieve this influence by using life force and structural links.

We know by now what life force is, but what are structural links? Moreover, how is it possible that you can produce an effect at a distance?

In fact, to generate an effect at a distance is something very natural for most people of our times. Think about a radio. Obviously, the radio is not connected by wire with the radio station, and yet the radio station can generate an effect in our radio by transferring news, music, commercials, and whatever else. This is a well accepted fact in our days. Now think ... If you had mentioned a century ago that such a thing was possible, you would have had the “skeptics” of the day up in arms, even trying to destroy your reputation, especially when they had ties to vested interests that for whatever reason, religious or commercial, did not desire innovation. This happened to the great Vivekananda when he mentioned such a thing in the 1860’s.

It is a similar situation with radionics. For a hundred years it exists and it has been ahead of its time since then, yet the political will for this innovation is still missing as far as the majority of “modern humans” is concerned, and the “skeptics” have still their hay day!

Naturally, it is your attitude that ultimately decides whether you want to reap the advantages and benefits of this technology or not.

How it works

Most certainly, you have heard stories about a shaman or practitioner of Voodoo who had an impact upon another human being even though this human was not present. The Voodoo practitioner, for instance, makes a doll that symbolizes the envisioned target of his work, usually a human being. If available, he also inserts personal items belonging to the target person into this doll such as hair, fingernails, or parts of clothing, a signature or a photo. Using this type connection, he is obviously capable of having an effect upon the human being whom the doll represents, even if he or she is half around the globe. How this Voodoo practitioner influences that person is solely his decision. (Note: Voodoo is by no means limited to the infamous use of pins in dolls, and in most cases, it includes practices to establish positive permanent solutions of recurring challenges! If you have a tendency of condemning religions based on such practices, think of the Christian priests, who think that God is always on the side of the people who are paying them salaries, who are blessing canons and other weapons of war.)

In the example above, the doll, we realize that the practitioner uses something that belongs to the target person. Such an object establishes the structural link. Structural links are connections that we establish with identical things or with equivalent settings. Structural links allow the flow of life force at any distance.

In the previous chapter, where we discussed the Welz Chi Generator, we mentioned that life force is subject to laws that are essentially different from laws that govern electromagnetic frequencies such as light in the universe. One of the characteristics of life force is that it transfers at any distance, provided the structural links that are present make this transfer possible.

In the example of the Voodoo doll, hair and fingernails of the person upon which the priest acts are such a structural link. This is so, because these objects are unique and part of the person as a result of the genetic code. It is like a personal phone number with 99 digits with the help of which the practitioner of Voodoo can reach this person. This is similar to the radio station, which can have an effect upon your radio, provided it is fine tuned to the sender. With the same “fine tuning” of identical structures (such as the genetic code) life force transfers at any distance.

Such phenomena are almost impossible to explain when we limit ourselves exclusively to the conventional world mapping of a 4-dimensional relativistic Gaussian space-time continuum or a similar limited mapping. To this day, most humans are unaware of this specific characteristic of life force, i.e., the capability to bridge any distance without loss of energy. In fact, a great many of them do not even know of the existence of life force! For a long time it was a well-guarded secret.

It is time now that we expand our mapping of the world (understanding of the world) in order to be capable of using this exciting new technology to its max!

There are many types of structural links. Hair and fingernails are an example. For this type we use the term “identical structural links”, because the hair and fingers nails in the doll are identical with the same hair and fingernails that are still part of the person to whom they belonged to begin with.

Now let us take another example: When you focus upon a person who is not present, i.e., if you see that person with your “inner eye” mentally, you establish a structural link with that person! You certainly have experienced the following: You think of a specific person and shortly afterwards the telephone is ringing. Who might this be? Well, it’s no other than the person who came to your mind previously ... “hello - well, that’s funny, I just thought about you! ...”

You can mentally establish a structural link with a person, object, or situation; consequently, you can direct life force mentally. Therefore, if you concentrate upon something or if you just think of it, you establish a structural connection to the object of our thought. Wise men of the old times kept telling their disciples that they “watch their thoughts, because where your thoughts dwell, there your energy flows!” This ancient observation concerning our mind has a lot of validity.

Obviously your mind is capable of establishing a mentally created structural connection with someone or something when focusing upon it attentively. This fact is of utter importance in the work with your radionics device. Remember, we mentioned that radionics is a technology of interaction with the mind. This means that you can use basic characteristics of your mental activity to get a result. Now, how then is action at any distance possible?

Here again, life force is the deciding factor: the stronger the life force is that surrounds an operation such as the Voodoo practice that we described earlier, the stronger the structural link can act that bridges the confinements of space-time, and the more effective this operation will be.

Of course, it should not be your intention to pierce a doll with pins in order to generate an effect on a person who is thousands of miles away. This example simply is a good one to explain how such action is possible and to describe the essential elements of such an action. To sum it all up, we need:

1. Sufficiently strong life force in the function as a “carrier” of the operation, and
2. Sufficiently strong structural linkage to the target of the operation

If we fail to take care of these preconditions, the effect of our operations will be next to nil.

Now, we may ask, if that energy transfer is possible, how do we want to act upon these people or events? Every operation at a distance such as work with a radionics device is performed with a specific goal in mind: to cause a specific trend, or action, that can lead to the desired effect of the operation. If, for instance, a friend of yours is unhappy with a relation, you can send him help and energy that will cause him to recover rapidly. You can imagine mentally that he is happy, which is a mentally created structural link to a trend-energy of happiness. Instead of the mental focus that is tiring when you practice for any extended period of time, you can use something permanent: symbols that represent fortunate circumstances and happiness or a corresponding setting of the radionics device.

When you supply the link to this trend with strong life force, then the probability of more rapid recovery is heightened. Therefore, besides strong life force to link up with the target (such as your friend), you also need

3. Sufficiently strong structural linkage to the envisioned trend (in our case this was a feeling of happiness and getting out of a slump).

This means that any action at a distance requires at least these three basic elements to be successful. If any one of these is missing, then the operation is doomed to fail. Shamans, Voodoo priests, and others knew that all along!

If you are looking at many of these ancient "esoteric" or "psychic" practices of action at a distance or perception at a distance (ESP) in the light of what you just learned, you will realize why these shamans - and others - did the things their way. You will recognize by now that behind that façade of a "hocus pocus" you find down-to-earth methods that evolved from old wisdom concerning life force and structural links.

As an example: In an old book about "sympathetic methods" (an old word for methods based on structural linkage) you find the following instructions for helping a sick person (more like energizing):

"Take seven hairs of the person. Find a young and strong tree. Drill a hole in the trunk of a young, strong, and healthy tree. Put the hair into the hole and close it with the wood of the same tree. The person will feel better."

Here we see: All three principles are active in this operation:

1. Sufficient life force
2. A strong link to the target person (the hair, preferably with follicle), and
3. A strong structural link to the trend (more energy) as expressed in the health of the young tree and, of course, the intent of the operator.

This wisdom concerning these three principles is at the basis of our work with the radionics device. In fact, this new technology of orgone radionics™ together with this scientific approach to age-old empirical practices opens up many new possibilities. One of the most important ones of these possibilities is the fact that even an untrained person who uses this technology can now get similar results, even better ones, than a professional who trained for years to get his skills, but does not own and operate this equipment. Traditional esoteric practices of the old times and in our times dedicated a lot of training to the establishing of structural links and to the generating of life force! With the invention of the Welz Chi Generator® such a task is considerably easier, training is no longer an absolute necessity. Simply put a trend link and target connection onto the wells of the radionics device, set the rates, turn on the life force generator, and you are now capable of working on the target person continuously without much of your own effort!

Such continuous and massive supply of life force can bridge the distance between trend and target, thus establishing a "trend-field" around the target person. The probability that the envisioned event takes place is much higher! As far as the action of life force is concerned, distance is a result of structural differences. In other words: The closer to identity the structures used are, the less the distance between their location.

Unique structural links guarantee very effective transfer, spreading to other - also similar - structures is unlikely. This compares to your radio: the reception is much better when it is tuned precisely to the radio station.

Your radionics device enables you to get precise structural linkage. When you work with this device conscientiously, you will soon have the necessary experience to establish very reliable and unique structural links.

Of course, this has to do with the knobs and dials of the tuner and with the stick pad. The pad, which is an integral part of most radionics devices, is designed to help you establish optimal structural links. Simply rub the stick pad gently with your thumb or finger tip while slowly turning one of the dials. Whenever your finger "rubs" differently ("the stick"), this indicates that you stop turning the dial. The number that you get this way is the correct rate, or radionics setting.

PART II
The Equipment

A. Welz Chi Generators

1. The JU 99 CE - Junior 99 Chi Energizer and other devices of the JU-series:
The JU 99 – 10, the TF 99 CE, the SPP 99 CE and the GPP 99 CE.
(1) Power Jack (on back of the device):
(2) LED (Light Emitting Diode): This light is blinking in the pre-set frequency of 7.83 Hz.
(3) Output Pipe: You can point the output pipe towards yourself (up to several feet away). You can also slide the booster part of a PBT 2400 (Power booster with Transfer Disk) over it, which more than triples the output power of your JU 99 CE. In this case, carry the transfer disk on yourself to energize yourself with chi energy. As an alternative, use the transfer couple (4).

2. LPOG 2400 DL - Low Pulse Welz Chi Generator with six pre-set brainwave frequencies, Middle of the Line, and the LPOG 2400 HD - Low Pulse Welz Chi Generator with six pre-set brainwave frequencies, Heavy Duty

(1) Power Jack
(2) Output Pipe
(3) Beamer Plate,
(4) Rotary Switch,
(5) Potentiometer,
(6) LED (Light Emitting Diode, Control Light),
(7) Switch
(8) Transfer Disk
(9) Input jack for Exterior Module (LPOG 2400 HD only)

The rotary switch (4) on top of any device with pre-set frequencies (the LPOG 2400 DL, LPOG 2400 HD, and RAD 2400 HD) offers a selection of six settings for the following exact brain wave frequencies:

| Pos ELF Effect | 3.5 Hz: for Super Learning, especially of languages, deep relaxation |
| 6.3 Hz: for Super Learning, Affirmations (such as in Autogenic Training), to boost the memory |
| 7.0 Hz: Enhance ESP (Extra Sensory Projection and Perception) |
| 7.83 Hz: Earth Resonance! invention, creativity, ESP, general purpose |

3. The Performer 2400
This device for sports performance enhancement comes with its own manual

4. The AO 2000 Water Optimizer
This device is designed to produce living water. Put up to 1 gallon of spring water, well water, or previously purified tap water, onto the stainless steel plate of the device. You taste a significant difference after a few seconds, the time it takes to reconsitute the original characteristics of water, as if it just came from a mountain spring. To be fully charged with Chi energy, a cup of water needs to be there a few minutes, one gallon about 10 minutes. Be sure not to use industrially polluted tap water. filter it first or purchase good drinking water.

B. Orgone-Radionics Devices
All radionics devices have a built-in Welz Chi Generator™!

1. The RAD 2000 Orgone Radionics™ Device

The tuner has three potentiometers with dials, each of which has settings ranging from 0 to 100. This allows one million settings of the device.

(1) Power Jack: For a 12V DC wall transformer
(2) Input Jack: for an exterior well or to connect with another radionics device
(3) Output Jack: for an exterior stick pad or to connect with another device.
(4) Off-On Switch
(5), (6), and (7) Three knobs of the tuner

Note: The LPOG 2400 HD delivers three times the orgone output of the LPOG 2400 DL. You can more than double its power by adding an exterior module (the EPM 2400 Exterior Precision Module) and plugging it into the “Input EPU” jack.
(8) Output Pipe
(9) Frequency Knob
You may use the stick pad to get the right setting.
(10) LED - Blinks at the speed of the frequency of the pulse unit.
(11) Well - Stainless Steel sheet onto which you put the “witness”, or probe.
(12) Stick Pad Orgonite sheet designed to help you find the rate

2. The RAD 2400 HD

The RAD 2400 HD has two tuners, one for the target and the other one for the trend. Furthermore, its pulse-generating unit allows six pre-set frequencies besides the frequency knob. The stick pad is connected to both tuners, while each tuner has its own well. The built-in orgone generator™ is heavy duty, same as in the LPOG 2400 HD. Furthermore, the RAD 2400 HD has one transfer disk that connects with the built-in orgone generator™.

Back Panel:

(1) Output Target: Connects to the stick pad and top tuner
(2) Output Trend: Connects to the stick pad and bottom tuner
(3) Power Input: Use a 12V DC wall transformer.
(4) Input for additional exterior pulse generator such as the ESM 2000 Exterior Standard Module. This adds strength to the heavy-duty orgone generator EPU inside the radionics device.
(5) Input Target: Connects to top well (19) and top tuner (Target)
(6) Input Trend: Connects to bottom well (20) and bottom tuner (Trend)
(7) On-Off Switch
Note: You can use the Input and Output jacks to connect the RAD 2400 HD with other radionics devices to powerful workstations.

Front Panel:

(8) Output Pipe
Top Panel:
(9), (10), and (11) three knobs of the top tuner (Target)
(12), (13), and (14) three knobs of the bottom tuner (Trend)
(15) LED (light emitting diode)
(16) Rotary Switch
Positions 1 through 6 are for fixed frequencies (see above), position 7 switches through to the right dial (17)
(17) Potentiometer. You can use it to set the pulse speed only when the rotary switch (16) is set on position 7.
(18) Stick pad

(19) Well for top tuner (Target)
(20) Well for bottom tuner (Trend)

4. The RAD 5

The RAD 5 is an orgone radionics™ device. It consists of two parts:
Part 1 is the orgone generator™. It is a donut shape, in which five heavy-duty orgone-generators™ are pointing towards the center of the device. All five output-pipes are silver tubing.
Part 2 is the tuner unit. It has five frequency tuners, one for each orgone generator, with three dials each.

On the side of the five dials is the well, below the stick pad. On the well (beamer plate), you can put items that serve as structural links to the trend, target, etc.

Use the stick pad (on older devices the orgonite ring serves as a stick pad) to set the rates. You can also set the rates with any one of our radionics programs such as the PR 2000 CD Power Radionics™ or Super Radionics™ program for PC (www.powerradionics.com).

The wall transformer should have a 12V output with a minimum of 500 milliamperes. The five orgone generators with corresponding dials correspond to:
(1) Basic Action
(2) Main Trend
(3) Trend in the Environment
(4) Main Target
(5) Alternate Target
These positions of orgone generators® will help you to connect the RAD 5 with the radionics program or to set it up according to your needs. It is important to know that you can rename these 5 positions any time to adjust for specific situations. For instance, if you work on a business with three owners, you can use three generators, one each for each owner, and take the remaining two generators for trend and basic action, or for main trend and trend of the environment.

If working on yourself with the help of a transfer disk, you can reassign your five generators to five different fields of life experience. I suggest that you do this only after you will have gained some experience of how to manage your trends.

You can also use the RAD 5 for five entirely different situations and persons. Ideally, you can do this with the RI 2400 CD radionics program, opening 5 different instances at the same time.

Transfer Disks:
The RAD 5 comes with a dual transfer disk system. As the name implies, the dual disk system has two parts. Put one part in the center of the devices, the other part you carry with you. Which part goes where is your decision.

5. The ATGS 3000 - Astro Trend Generating System

The ATGS is an orgone radionics™ device. Like the RAD 5, the ATGS 3000 consists of two parts:

Part 1 is the orgone generator®. It is a donut shape with 12 heavy-duty orgone generators™ that are pointing toward the center of the device. All 12 output-pipes are silver tubing.

Part 2 is the tuner. It has 12 settings, one for each orgone generator®, with three dials each. The orgone generator™ serves as a stick pad. The center of the orgone generator® serves as well.

The wall transformer should have a 12V output with a minimum of 500 milliamperes. Better are 1 to 1.5 Amperes.

The instructions that follow are based on the characteristics of the twelve astrological houses. They are such that every person, astrologer or not, can use the ATGS.

You can use many different approaches to power up your ATGS. In the following instructions, we are going step by step, from relatively simple setups to increasingly complex ones where you can eventually work with multiple situations simultaneously.

The beauty of the ATGS is its flexibility. Even if you are not proficient in astrology, you can use its radionics. Simply put structural links to the desired trends into each one of the twelve astrological houses and set the radionics rate for each one. A combination between the two is optimal.

Important: The link to the target person is in the center of your ATGS. You can either use the chart of the target person or any other structural link such as the power booster with transfer disk. You can also use up to twelve different instances at the same time, in which case each generator has to have its specific target link close to the output pipe.

The following setup that is based on the astrological houses is very easy, especially for the non-astrologer.

Check, which set of three dials goes to what output by turning all dials to the left, then turning the three dials of the set on the top left all the way to the right.

While all other lights are blinking slowly, the light connected to that set of three is now solid. Set sheet with the houses inside the generator with the first house being in front of the output pipe belonging to the "solid" light. Continue with the other dials, going down, then, at the bottom to the right and then up again. You will notice dial after dial to become solid. Now you are ready to set up your astrological greenhouse.

The Astrology of the Twelve Houses

Each astrological house represents a field of life experiences. For more details such as the meanings of houses, planets, signs, aspects, etc., see the astrology course or study a good astrology book.

The following descriptions of the twelve houses, taken from the Astrology course that you find online (www.astrologycourse.com), can serve you as a good description of each house.

First House
Personal and self related concerns

Second House
Personal possessions and security

Third House
Relationships to the immediate environment

Fourth House
Personal home and private life
Fifth House
Instinctive affections and re-creation

Sixth House
Services given and received and health

Seventh House
Partnership relations at a personal level

Eighth House
Material relationships involving shared resources

Ninth House
Mental and physical explorations

Tenth House
Place in society and standing in the world

Eleventh House
Hopes and wishes and impermanent attachments

Twelfth House
Freedom from restrictions

Putting the desired trends into each house

1. Determine what you need or want in each house and make notes.
2. Set the three knobs that go with the house radionically. Use the smooth orgonite surface of the donut shaped power unit of the ATGS as stick pad, ideally the surface next to the house for which you get the rate.
3. You can put signs and planets that best represent your needs into the houses. You may modify the planets by means of midpoints, aspects or sign position, with the help of other - non astrological - symbols, or simply by writing down how you expect the planet to act.

Note: In order to optimize the ATGS, strongly suggest that you study the free course in natal astrology (www.astrologycourse.com) and refine this knowledge with other study material.

Important: Each Power Booster with Transfer Disk (PBT 2400) is connected with this Transfer Disk only. There is no replacement for a Transfer Disk, should you lose it.

3. The Potency Booster PBTBH 2000

A Power Booster that features a special built-in structural filter designed to increase male potency. Chi is life energy. With specific filters, vital Chi energy is directed to the sexual organs for invigoration and increased sexual energy. For best results, carry the transfer disk always on you. Like the PBT 2400, you can attach additional trends to it and transfer them to yourself.

Disclaimer: This and all other devices are operating with body energies, or Chi. Consequently, they have no therapeutic value whatsoever. To treat impotence or any other body condition or ailment, see your doctor!

PART III
First Steps with your Device

1. Inspection + Material Return Instructions

Upon receiving, inspect your Welz Power Generator, radionics device, exterior module(s), and other devices.

1.1. Plug the DC plug of the Power Adapter into the power jack of the device, then plug the AC-DC Power Adapter into an outlet. Turn the device on.

1.3. The AO 2000: Turn the device on. The LED should be blinking.

1.4. RAD 2000: Turn the device on. Turn the knob slowly. The LED blinks very slowly when the knob is turned all the way to the left. As you turn the knob to the right, the blinking speed increases until it appears as a solid light.

1.5. LPOG 2400 DL, LPOG 2400 HD and RAD 2400 HD: These devices have continuous settings and fixed frequency settings. Turn the device on. First, turn the left knob (the rotary switch) all the way to the right. This switches over to the potentiometer (right) that allows continuous settings. Turn the right knob slowly. The LED blinks very slowly when the knob is turned all the way to the left. As you turn the knob to the right, the blinking speed increases until it appears as a solid light. Then test all other positions of the rotary switch (left knob). The LED should blink in the frequency indicated on the dial.

1.6. RAD 5 and ATGS: Turn the device on. Be sure the two parts are connected. Test each of the generators. You have three knobs for each generator instead of one.

1.7. EPM 2400: Turn the module on. The display should show a frequency of 7.83 Hz (Schumann resonance). The right button is for random frequencies that you can use in conjunction with a radionics device. The left button moves the numbers right from the decimal point up when depressed. When you simultaneously depress the right middle button, the numbers left of the decimal point will increase. The left middle button causes the numbers right of the decimal point to decrease while pressed. Again, when you depress the right middle button at the same time, this will cause the numbers left of the decimal point to decrease.

2. Warranty

Manufacturer replaces, repairs, or exchanges defective devices within two years from date of purchase, provided that the defect is not the result of inappropriate use. This warranty does not cover any AC adapter or other power supply.

3. Disclaimer

All items from HSCTI are solely for research purposes. Many scientists state that the concepts of universal life force, Chi energy, radionics, etc., do not belong to what they assume science should be. Therefore, it is your personal decision whether or not you accept the existence of life force, or Chi energy, and in the effectiveness of any practices that use life force. This instruction manual contains descriptions of suggested purposes and uses of these devices that are based on such beliefs. They reflect the personal opinions of practitioners of life force technologies, lay persons as well as professionals, which the manufacturer does not necessarily endorse.

Therefore, the manufacturer assumes no responsibility for any damages that may occur as a consequence of such beliefs.

The devices from HSCTI have no therapeutic value at all and should never be used for such purposes. If you are sick and you think that you need healing energies, consult with a physician!

4. Become acquainted with your device

After unpacking the device, removing the transfer disk and checking everything (see Section 1), take your time to get acquainted with it. See the various features in your device as described later. Take the device and look at it from all sides, turn the dials and touch the various parts. This way you get a first feel for your equipment. The more you feel at ease with your device, the more effective your work with it will be.

Each of the devices has an output pipe in front of the device that is up to 1 ½ inches long. This is the place where the Chi energy leaves the device. For instance, when you energize yourself or anything else, place the output pipe in a way that it aims at your body or whatever else you energize. Exception: the AO 2000 Water Energizer, where the stainless steel plate is the output.

Another feature of each orgone-radionics™ device is a pulse generator that you can set at specific frequencies (with the exception of devices of the JU 99 CE series and the AO 2000 water optimizer, which are pre-set at specific frequencies). Some frequencies are pre-set, others you can set using the stick pad. You can tune the device to specific brain wave frequencies - more about that later, with the description of the devices.

Most devices have a well. This is used to connect a trend link with the life energy of the device and to tune the orgone to such a trend energy and/or target. This compares to attaching specific informations to the life force in a similar way as the frequencies of a radio station are made to carry language, music, etc. to your radio. For this type modulation, you may use archetypal “filter” cards, settings of the radionics device, the power-radionics™ program, or all of the above.

Most devices come with a transfer couple, some with two or three. Use these transfer couples to stay connected with your device and draw its energy when you are not close to it, perhaps in another room or thousands of miles away. Put one unit of the transfer couple in front of your device while you carry the other one on you. You can attach it to your key chain. The Power Booster with transfer disk PBT 2400 operates in the same manner, and it increases the output of the device.
PART IV
A Step by Step Introduction into the “Techno-Magic” of NCP

Neuro-Cybernetic Programming™

NCP is the most advanced method of Life Force Technology. It involves the use of life force generators and of a device that can be viewed as a universal structural link: the radionics device. The use of these devices compares to the use of modern methods of locomotion such as planes, cars and ships, instead of the comparably limited old methods of walking and horseback riding. In the light of the theories that you learned in the previous chapters, the importance of the devices from HSCTI for this advanced form of life force technology is obvious! As is the case with any form of technology, you need to learn how to use it effectively. In the following chapters, you will find an introduction to the most effective use of this technology.

Important: Unless you are a seasoned expert in the techniques of visualization, creation of thought forms, etc., it is not a good idea to use your equipment immediately in the hope to get spectacular results! Learning to use the equipment compares to learning to drive a car, to operate a computer, or to use any other kind of equipment. It is very important to make small steps first. This is so, because you need to get familiar with the equipment before you operate it for complex high-powered work. Nobody in his or her right mind would want to hot-rod a new sports car before having gained sufficient driving experience!

After your first acquaintance with the equipment, you continue to work on relatively small issues, ideally beginning with yourself. Then you proceed with projecting energy to others, again in relatively small issues. Eventually you will gain the experience and confidence that is necessary for highly successful use of the equipment. If you have studied the course “Magic of the Future,” you will have a bit more ease in the practices that follow. Above all, in this course you will find practices that teach you how to feel and direct life energy, perhaps even see it. In the chapters of this section, we will show you a good introductory and learning program to follow. I strongly advise that you follow these instructions step by step, from self-help to trend management, without skipping anything. This will help you to get the right “feel” for your equipment! The time invested and the persistence in your practice will certainly pay off in the form of full mastery of your new equipment!

1. First Steps and Basic Examples for Self-Help and Trend Management (any device)

1.1. Feel the Chi Energy Output

Turn the generator on, then hold the center of your palm (either hand) approximately 1 inch (2 - 3 cm) in front of the output pipe of the Welz Chi Generator® or Power Radionics™ device. You should feel a gentle warmth, tingling, or cool breeze. The type of feeling depends very much on the system of nerve endings that react first. Persons who are skilled with their hands usually feel the cool breeze rather than warmth.

If you have an AO 2000, hold your palm approximately 1 inch above the stainless steel plate on top of the device.

Do the same thing with your wrist. Then point the machine (about 1 to 2 inches away) at the center between your eyes.

Rule: The Chi Generator® should not be on the ground or on a concrete floor. In such a case, there is a possibility that the chi energy literally will be “grounded.” Use a table, chair, or some other non-metallic stand.

Note: Do not get alarmed if, after getting used to your equipment, you do not feel the output as strongly as you did in the beginning. Once you have energized your body to capacity, it will not draw any more as much life energy as in the beginning. Consequently, your nerve endings will no longer react as strongly. Feeling less indicates a diminished flow of Chi from the machine into your body as a result of its saturation, not diminished performance of your Chi Generator®!

1.2. Feel Differences in the Energy Output

Turn the Welz Chi Generator® on. Then set it at the lowest level, i.e., the slowest blinking speed, by turning the dial all the way to the left. Feel the output. Then turn the dial all the way to the right. The control light will be “solid” with no blinking. Again feel and compare the output each time. Feel with wrists and forehead and compare these sensations as well.

Note: The JU 99 series and AO 2000 are set at one frequency.

1.3. Feel the Energy Output at a Distance

Attach the Booster part of the PBT 2000 to the output pipe of your Chi Generator® or simply use the transfer disks that come with all other devices. Put the transfer disk of the PBT 2000 at a table that is at least 6 ft away from the device. Practice also as described in 1.2. If you have a transfer couple, put the rectangular part of the transfer couple is next to the Chi generator® and hold the hand over the transfer disk to feel the energy output. The distance of the transfer disk from the Chi generator® is irrelevant. It can be a few feet away or half around the globe.

1.4. Energize Yourself with a Structural Link

Now it is time to direct the energy toward yourself. Turn on the Chi Generator® with the power booster attached or one part of the transfer couple next to it. Since Chi energy transfers at any distance (with the right structural link!), all you need to do is carry the corresponding transfer disk (of the PBT 2400 or of the TC 99 transfer couple) with you. You can also make a transfer diagram on paper: For smooth transfer of energies, uniqueness of the transfer diagram is important. With unique transfer diagrams, leakage of energy is less likely. Use a copying machine for exactness! Design anything, even a scribble, and then make photocopies of the individual designs: two, or in some instances, three. Discard the original diagram after you finished copying. You end up with two designs that will have nothing like it anywhere. Put one diagram in front of the Chi Generator®. Take the other one somewhere else, put it on a surface, and check for transfer! Do not put it on your knee, because your body will draw the energy and the palm of your hand will not be capable of feeling it.

Set the pulse speed of the Chi Generator® at its highest level. Carry the transfer disk or transfer diagram on yourself for about one or two hours. Note the feeling of being energized that you have.

Wait for at least two hours before you continue. Better yet, wait overnight. Now you set the Chi Generator® at its lowest level (the slowest blinking rate possible) by turning the knob all the way to the left. Again, carry the transfer disk on you for one to two hours. Compare the feelings. High frequencies activate, while low frequencies calm down.

1.5. Energize Distilled Water

Distilled water is “dead” as far as life energy is concerned. This is the reason for its bland taste. For the following experiment you need two bottles of distilled water. One bottle you put somewhere, at least 10 ft away from the Chi Generator®. Point your Chi Generator® at the other bottle for at least 2 hours. Compare the taste of the water in the two bottles. You will be amazed!

You can get still better results with the AO 2000 Water Optimizer, which does not only charge the water with Chi energy, it also reorganizes its crystalline structure into its original state, making living water.

1.6. Relax Yourself

Turn on your Chi Generator®. Set the pulse rate at its lowest level or at about 6 to 8 blinks per second or set it at 7.83 Hz or lower. Lie down and put the transfer disk (or diagram) onto your chest or simply lay it beside yourself. Stay in this relaxed state for about half an hour. If you have a radionics device, you can set its trend on a relaxation rate. If you have mastered Autogenic Training (course available from HSCTI), you will notice a significant deepening of the state of relaxation when you practice in conjunction with using your Welz Chi Generator®.

1.7. Self-Programming

The relaxation practice was the first step towards programming yourself. Now you can continue to use other programs. For these practices, you adjust the speed of the pulse (frequency) to an adequate rate. You can use the stick pad of your radionics device or a pendulum to determine this speed. The EPM 2400 comes with a list of pulse speeds for specific purposes. Also note the suggestions with the 6 fixed speed settings (see LPOG). A good frequency is at the point where the blinking is still barely perceived - at the threshold to appearing as a solid light. Furthermore, it is now important to either set your radionics device at a rate that reflects the desired self-programming, or you use a graphic diagram of an archetypal structure that represents the “trend” that you intend to project upon yourself (a filter), or both.

Use filters and/or settings for: Creativity, Charisma, Convincing Speech, Leadership, People-Skills, Power to Analyze, Scientific Thinking, etc.

If you have a PBT 2400, slide the Power Booster over the output pipe of your Chi Generator® and carry the transfer disk on yourself. Limit the time to two or three hours at the beginning. Alternatively, use your transfer couple by putting one part with the Chi Generator® while carrying the other part on you.

You can enhance significantly the effect of your self-programming with the practice of Autogenic Training.

1.8. Energy transfer with the radionics device

The radionics device is an ideal tool to target a location (or person) for energy for transfer from your Chi Generator®. Perform the following experiment:
(1) Take a photo (Polaroid is OK.) of the interior of a room.
(2) Choose a place somewhere in the room (maybe on top of the table).
(3) Mark a cross on the photo at that place where you want to project the energy.
(4) Put the photo onto the well of the radionics device.
(5) Focusing on the place of transfer, get a rate for that place.
(6) Turn on the power generator.
(7) Go to the place and check for the energy.
You can perform the same experiment with a location that is thousands of miles away. The obvious advantage of the radionics device is that you can reach with it anywhere.

1.9. Intermediate Self-Programming (with the Help of Autogenic Training, if mastered)

Set the Chi Generator® or orgone radionics™ device up with the setting of the trend that you intend to project upon yourself, with the appropriate radionics setting, a filter, or both. Carry the transfer disk on you. Then you relax yourself with the help of Autogenic Training and use a formulaized resolution, reflecting the desired trend, such as creativity. The setting of the pulse is at a very low level. Practice for 5 to 10 minutes. If you are not familiar with Autogenic Training, simply relax fully, with the trend energy directed at yourself.

After getting out of the state of relaxation or Autogenic Training, leaving the setting of the RAD and/or the same filters in front of the Chi Generator®, you set the pulse at a higher frequency. Keep carrying the transfer disk on you. Project the Chi energy to yourself for two to three hours.

I strongly suggest the practice of Autogenic Training to enhance the success of your practice with the orgone radionics™ devices. The free course on the Internet: www.autoaura.com

1.10. Project Chi energy to another person, hand or forehead

For this experiment, you need the help of a person who is willing to work with you. If you do not find a suitable partner, do the same projections upon yourself. Get a picture of that person (or yourself) and make at least two color photocopies of it. A black-white photocopy will do, if it is too much trouble to get a color copy. Take one of the copies and mark the forehead of the person. Put the picture onto the well of your radionics device and set the rate to connect with the forehead of the person. The person should feel the energy. As an alternative, you may do the same thing with a picture of yourself.

Next, take another picture of the same person. Do not mark anything, and focus on the center of the palm (or any other part of that person’s body), and set your radionics device at the rate for that part while you are focusing. Check how the person feels the impact of Chi energy. Again, do the same projection toward yourself.

Next, simply write the name of that person on a piece of paper and the part of the body to which you intend to project Chi energy. Proceed the same way: set the rate for the desired target area.

1.11. Relax another person

The next practice is similar to practice #1.6. and in this case you relax the other person at a distance. Put a picture of that person into the well of the Chi Generator® or orgone radionics™ device and set the rate to connect with that person. Turn your Chi Generator® on. Ask that person for feedback. Under no circumstances should you carry a transfer disk, since this will direct most of the energy towards yourself. Set the Chi Generator® at its lowest frequency. Perform the same experiment on yourself.

1.12. Activate another person

Relaxation itself energizes, of course, especially when it is combined with a flow of life energy into your body. The idea with this practice is as follows: pulse the Chi energy at a brain wave frequency that has been connected with alertness and logical thinking (such as 14.1 Hz). The result will be an activation of these functions of the plain waking state and better performance. Of course, you can do the same work on yourself. Set the frequency at a point where the control light seems almost “solid” and the blinking is a fast flickering. You can, of course, use the radionics stick pad to determine the exact frequency for that purpose. Establish that frequency the same way you establish a rate for the radionics device itself: while turning the knob of the pulse generator you rub the stick pad. Keep the setting where you experience the “stick.”

Keep activation for two to three hours at a time.

1.13. Intuition, Intelligence, Creativity

(1) Using the appropriate filter set the rate of the radionics device.
(2) Using the stick pad set the pulse speed (frequency) of the Chi Generator® or set the desired frequencies when you work with other devices.
(3) Get into a lying position.
(4) Put the transfer disk or transfer diagram in your pocket or lay it on your chest.
(5) Enter the state of Autogenic Training.
(6) Visualize or imagine yourself with the envisioned skills.
(7) After 10 to 15 minutes get up and put the transfer disk into your pocket and go about your business, ideally being involved in activities that require the skills of your programming.
(8) Keep the energy active and transferring to you for at least three hours.

1.14. Tuning into People at a Distance Using Structural Linkage (ESP)

To this point, you have become familiar with the principle of structural linkage with the medium of life energy and you have followed practices that make use of the transfer of life energy at any distance with the help of near-identical and equivalent structures. This principle, namely that distance is a result of structural differences as far as transfer of life energy is concerned, leads naturally to an understanding of some phenomena that have been largely unexplainable to this point. Gaining a linkage to any point with the help of the medium of life energy, we can perform that which some researchers call “extrasensory perception” or “extrasensory projection,” in brief, ESP. The fact that the distance played hardly any significant role in experiments with ESP has puzzled many researchers of the past. We know that this phenomenon is the result of structural linkage, in which distance in “space” indeed is irrelevant.

The practice that follows makes use of this principle in a big way. Up to now you have established structural linkage with the help of radionics device, photos, etc. Now you are using your brain to establish a structural link with a distant object or person. With its visualization and imagining power, the brain is in fact an ideal tool to establish structural links. Its disadvantage is that these visualization images are fleeting. In other words, you cannot hold them for any extended period of time as you can do with structural links of the kind that you have used up to now. However, if you use special techniques to stay for a few minutes with a specific image in order to explore that to which the image connects, you can gain valuable information about that target.

We have demonstrated that distance is a result of structural differences. Therefore, if, with the help of imagination/visualization, your brain establishes such a structural link to a target, you are right there. The skill is to adapt your sensory apparatus to the impressions that you get from your target to fit your perceptions. In other words, you need to train yourself to translate impressions that are transmitted through the medium of life energy (chi) into visual images, sounds, feelings, hunches, etc., for this linkage to become a valid tool of ESP. The equipment from HSCTI can help you achieve this goal.

(1) Select a target
(2) Set a rate for ESP enhancement on your radionics device, perhaps put the appropriate filter into the well. With the second tuner, select your target.
(3) Set the frequency of your Chi Generator® at a low level
(4) With a headband, attach a structural link such as a transfer disk to the back of your head.
(5) Turn on the power.
(6) Mentally focus on the target and wait for impressions, thoughts, pictures, etc., to emerge.
(7) Time: About 15 to 20 minutes. Not more! Above all, don’t expect immediate results unless you have had previous training.

1.15. Meditation Practices

To many of us, meditation had always a purpose: namely to enhance my mental capabilities. If your meditation has a religious goal, use the practices described in 3.2. for that purpose. Set the rates of the radionics devices accordingly and focus on that goal.

2. Advanced uses of your Orgone Radionics™ Device.

2.1. Structural Links and Energy Transfer

You have found out earlier that life force transfers at any distance. In fact, you have (hopefully) performed the exercises. For this transfer an adequate structural link and sufficient life force are important.

In the following chapters you will learn more about several types of structural links. You know of structural links that are identical (actually near-identical), for instance the hair and fingernails that contain the genetic code.

You have also read about mental structural links. One of the things to do in order to get acquainted with your device was to build up a high power connection with it. The reason being that, the more comfortable you feel with your device, the more powerful the results will be.

Now we are giving you a list of many types of structural links that you can use for your work.
a) Identical Structural Links

We mentioned these in our example with the Voodoo priest: hair, fingernails, etc. Other identical structural links are clothing or signatures (again it’s the genetic code of skin rubbings etc. that you find there), saliva, blood, etc.

Identical structural links are mostly used when a connection with a target is established. A photo is not exactly identical, but it’s a good “map”, similar to the Voodoo doll.

b) Equivalent Structural Links

Besides identical structural links, you can use many different types of equivalent structural links. We mentioned previously the mental connection that you establish with concentration upon the target and upon the envisioned trend. Here we have nothing tangible per se, but we have to do with abstractions, or maps. Such things can have a symbolic connection with the trend or target. Such a connection is established with the mind of the operator. This is so, because a map is meaningless per se. It has only meaning when “in interaction” with someone who is capable of using it.

Going back the in-famous Voodoo doll: While the genetic code of the target person establishes a link with that person (because it is unique to everyone!), the Voodoo doll is used to set the trend. It represents the body of the target person, or better, it is used as a map of it. Without the priest, the doll would not have any effect. For it to be useful, the practitioner has to KNOW what it means. A focus on the envisioned action relating to the map (the doll) while determining that this doll is a representative (= “symbol”) of the body of a target person is sufficient. The fact that tens thousands of Voodoo priests have been using this method for centuries gives it additional validity (“power”). A photo is similar to the Voodoo doll: the practitioner has to KNOW that it connects with the person it represents, and not with another, identical, photo.

Experimentally we have proven two important things concerning such equivalent structural links:

(1) If you focus on a place (for instance in your apartment) where you want to send life force and you make a scribble at the same time KNOWING that this scribble represents the target, this scribble becomes a valid target link!

(2) The same holds when you arbitrarily set a radionics device while focusing on a target, or trend. The radionics device is a perfect map, and a very abstract one at that! The simultaneity of focus and setting makes the arbitrary rate a perfect rate!

Here, then, we have the basic common functioning principle of any set of equivalent structural links, including the famous “similia similibus”. Similia similibus means that you can treat similar things with similar things, i.e., in folkloristic healing it is believed that an herb that looks like a certain organ can cure an ailment of that organ. This is the basis of “sympathetic medicine” and “sympathetic magic”.

The common functioning principle of equivalent structural links is that such links are established by the mind of an operator when she or he focuses on a target, or action, while establishing its “map” or its “symbol” for the purpose of action at a distance. The more persons work with the same symbol for the same purpose, the more life force is attached to it and the more reliable is this structural link.

Note: This principle led to nonsensical practices whenever the results were explained wrongly in a “materially” oriented way, i.e., the structural linkage between certain objects and specific effects that was established by the mind was not recognized as such and the results were then falsely attributed to assumed inherent “properties” of the materials used as structural linkages. Powdered rhinoceros horn, tiger parts, bear parts and shark fin soup as remedies in Eastern medicine that are still used in our days have been attributed effects, which can be much easier achieved otherwise. More grisly still was the widespread medical cannibalism (eating human parts, usually dried and powdered, including “mumia” = powdered mummies, as remedies) that was practiced all over Europe and elsewhere until about only two centuries ago. I suspect that in the case of astrology millions of people became victim of the establishing of such a structural map. In other words, it is not necessarily an objective power of the planets that causes astrology to be a great tool to make valid statements about peoples’ lives and to predict their future trends, but the power of the meanings attached to these planets and their interrelations, positions in “signs” and mutual aspects, as observed from the Earth (geocentrically) throughout the history of that science. The fact that there are several schools of astrological interpretation using entirely different methods that are often at odds with each other and which seem to bring results nevertheless supports this opinion.

I suggest that you repeat practice 1.8. on page 31 and set the radionics rate arbitrarily. No stick pad, no pendulum, no “gut feeling”, just plain arbitrarily! Then you check for transfer! Some people bring the objection that “nothing is arbitrary” – and we are full circle back to rhinocogor of St. Mary, which is a collective egregor of the same specific idea. An example is the connections) that have been generated by An egregor is a confluence of energies (structural prayers can also connect with specific egregors. of faith. Spoken or written words such as love, empathy, hope, forgiveness, and power connect with specific ideas, or energies, such as the Lord’s Prayer and Ave Maria. On the other hand, such thinking has certainly proven to be a trap that can lead to serious misconceptions when it comes to attempts to understand and explain the processes involved in many “spiritual” or “esoteric” practices. I suggest here that it’s now up to the reader to analyze the many esoteric traditions he or she knows of. We continue here with specific sets of structural links of this kind that are representing trends. You can use them or you can reject them. If you are beginning with your work at a distance, I suggest that you keep it simple and go “abstract” as radionics does: numbers, radionics settings, arbitrary designs, and other freely invented structural linkage. If you are already familiar with “esoteric systems” such as sets of symbols (Lemegeton, I Ching, key of Solomon, spiritual hierarchies, etc.), using them can speed up your success. Be aware that these crutches are not absolutely necessary and that they draw their “power” from the fact that many people before you have believed in them and made successful use of them. A set of numbers is as good as a structural link to an effect as is any assumed gaseous mammal above the clouds or elsewhere.

The spoken or written word (prayer, psalm, mantra, Rune chant, etc.)
Prayers, psalms, mantras, etc., have in common that specific effects are ascribed to them. For instance, the Lord ‘s Prayer and Ave Maria connect with specific ideas, or energies, such as love, empathy, hope, forgiveness, and power of faith. Spoken or written words such as prayers can also connect with specific egregors. An egregor is a confluence of energies (structural connections) that have been generated by many individually whose attention is focused on the same specific idea. An example is the egregor of St. Mary, which is a collective egregor of practically all who believe in it and worship it. If you think of the spontaneous and “miraculous” healing that happens over and over again in places like Lourdes (connected with St. Mary), you can realize how effective such egregors can be when sufficient people focus on such a location.

Archetypal symbols and seals
Like words, symbols can also establish structural links. Again, you find many symbols in old (and not so old) grimoires that have the characteristic of connecting to egregors, especially when many people have been using these symbols or the grimoires as a whole. The Yin Yang symbol, for instance, is often used as a balancing tool, while the pentagram connects with vitalizing, activating and constructive energies. The filter cards that you can find on our list of accessories and in the radionics programs have groupings of archetypal symbols that connect with the trend the description of which you find on the card.

Things around us
Shamans and hermetics ancient times received from their teachers secrets of “magical” properties of many things and their specific purpose. Among others you find here herbs, barks, roots, stones, gems, incense, oils, colors, trees, places, etc. Astrologers have special meanings for planets, signs, houses, etc. Metaphysicists speak of “psychic bridges” which refers to structural links where one object can be substituted by another one. The previously mentioned “sympathetic connections” of “similes similibus” (treat similar things with similar things) belong to this category. The effects ascribed to these objects, herbs, gems, etc., you find in the appropriate literature.

Body Positions, dance movements, hand positions, etc.
We can establish structural links to specific trends with our body and hands. To gain evidence, relax and fold your hands like in prayer, then put your hands on your knees, then fold them again. Repeat a couple of times and tune into the feelings that you get each time. You find many of these postures in books about Yoga and Runes (www.runemagick.com).

Our mind, intent and awareness
When we focus on specific trends, or on “spirits, angels” or other entities or egregors, and, perhaps, visualize them (we see them with our inner eye), we establish structural links to them. Our intense focus or intent can establish very strong links, which, however, are not very steady due to the characteristic of our mind to “wander”. In esoteric and hermetic schools, the students are taught to concentrate for an extended period and to control the fleetingness of thoughts, so that a more permanent effect can be achieved with a focus, or concentration.

Technical devices

In this category is, of course, your orgone radionics device. The main characteristic and advantage of such a device is that it is extremely flexible, as flexible as the human mind that operates it. You determine what it maps and, by way of tuning rates (settings), you can establish permanent structural links to anything you desire. The better you “know” your device, the more it can serve you!

Abstractions, alphabets, numeric squares, letter squares

These are very old. In esoteric (or hermetic) astrology planets are ascribed specific numbers: 3 for Saturn, 4 for Jupiter, etc. to each number, or planet, a “magical square” was ascribed whose numbers have the same sum in its rows, columns, and diagonals. The squares from 3 x 3 numbers through 9 x 9 numbers find use in many traditional practices and they are ascribed the effects of the corresponding planets. You find these squares in the data bases of our radionics programs.

A final note: You can design your own symbols and filters that help you establish structural links. It is important that these symbols are unique. The establishing of such a symbol is essentially the same process as setting the rate of a radionics device.

2.2. Energy transfer to humans, animals, plants, etc. with the radionics device.

Now you are going to perform a radionics operation where you will get hands-on experience of how you can project energy to yourself, to others, to animals or plants. This time the target will be you.

- a) Select an object that you can use as a target link: hair (with follicle), a sheet of paper with your hand writing on it, a photo, or the like.
- b) Select a desired trend/action. You can use a filter card (for instance “charisma” or “optimism” - keep it simple for the beginning!) or write your intent on a piece of paper, perhaps make your own symbol. Selecting a symbol or making your own can be helpful. It is not necessary if you use a radionics device! The radionics setting that you get while focusing will be the symbol that connects with the trend.
- c) RAD 2000: Put the target link in front of the output pipe, the trend description onto the well. RAD 2400 HD: Put the target link onto the target-well (in front, close to the output pipe, see the description of the device) and the trend-link onto the trend-well (next to the stick pad)
- d) Switch on your device
- e) Select the pulse frequency that you feel is adequate for your operation. Either use one of the 6 fixed frequencies (the RAD 2400 series) or use your gut-feeling. Alternatively, you can use the stick pad when selecting: first the 6 fixed frequencies, then, when none of them checks out, the continuous setting with the right knob. While using the stick pad think of getting the frequency that’s optimal for your work and simultaneously turn the knobs, first the rotary switch with the fixed frequencies and then the right knob. Use the stick pad (or arbitrary settings while focusing) when working with your RAD 5 or ATGS 3000.
- f) In the same way you establish the settings of the radionics tuners. If you have the RAD 2000, you set the 3 dials to the desired trend-target connection, while on the RAD 2400 series you establish first the rate (settings) for the target (the tree dials close to the panel with the output pipe), then for the trend (the tree dials in the middle, see the section describing the devices). I suggest that you rub the finger that you used on your clothing each time after you get a “stick” so that it slides well again.

Ready to go!

Now your device supplies you and the desired trend energy continuously with life force. This establishes a permanent connection between you and this trend, no matter where you are while the machine is turned on. If you use the transfer disk you need not a target-link nor do you need to establish rates for the target. Leave the dials of the tuner for the target on zero - turned all the way to the left.

Keep the device on for one to two hours a day, more if you use a middle-of-the line device (the RAD 2400 DL or the RAD 2000).

About the stick pad and dials of the orgone-radionics™ device:

We have shown previously that the dials of the radionics device have the function of being a universal structural link. If you combine the dials with the near-identical and/or symbolic representations of the target- and trend-links, you can achieve very precise equivalent structural links. This precision improves the connection between, trend and target significantly.

Example: Put the photo of a person onto the well. On a piece of paper write down “the right hand”, and then set the dials for the right hand of that person.

Compare a less precise structural link with the “light cone” of a flash light. This cone gets larger the more distant it is from the object that you want to see. It gets weaker in proportion to the square of the distance. After just a few feet it becomes increasingly difficult to see. Compare the precise structural link that you establish with the help of your stick pad and dials to a laser beam that hits the target even hundreds of yards away. Got it?

Multiple Projects?

When you intend to work on several different situations simultaneously, you can change from one to the other. Turn the device that connects with the present situation off. Turn all dials to zero and remove all objects from the device. I suggest that you make notes of the settings before removing everything and setting the dials to zero, so that you can re-use the same settings without the need to re-set the device with the help of the stick pad.

Then you put the structural links for the new project onto the well(s) and go through points (a) through (f) above. Do as many projects as you like. When returning to a prior operation you can re-use the radionics settings that you established before or establish new rates. I prefer the latter, since every time when the device is set up the circumstances changed a bit from the previous situation.

Be sure that no mutual interferences arise from multiple projects that are set up for one and the same target person.

With stronger devices, i.e., devices that generate more life force, you can work on more projects during the same period of time, since less time is required for each individual setup.

2.3. Success Management, Advanced Trend Management

Success here means the achieving of goals that you have set targeted. We have mentioned before what’s decisive for success of any action at a distance in general and in radionics operations in particular.

a) Sufficient life force to energize the operation
b) A precise structural link to the target

c) A precise structural link to the trend energy

In addition to that, you have to consider other factors such as do-ability of the project, availability of the desired success, and interferences from the environment and from within. Therefore you have to analyze the situation before embarking on more complicated radionics operations. Start with the target of the operation: your or the person for whom you are setting it up.

What is intended?

Get a very clear idea of what you intend to do and be aware of potential consequences of the trend energies when activated and the resulting situation once the goal is achieved. Remember “the wizard’s apprentice” where the broom is transformed into a water-carrier!

This means no more and no less that, when working with high power equipment you need to be aware of the potential consequences of your action. Before you intend to get a specific person inclined to be your lover, make a little background check. It could well be that your subconscious actually protected you from such a relationship for a reason. An old saying: “when doing the magick, you likely get what you want...” - you may just end up as an abused wife/lover or as a hen-pecked husband! Then you have to do the next operation to straighten out that situation (if still possible), and so on.

Now let’s go to applied trend management. Let’s assume that you want to heighten your professional chances, perhaps a promotion, better working conditions or simply more pay.

Proceed as follows:

a) Analyze the situation. Weigh the pros and cons carefully!

b) Write down in precise terms what you intend to achieve, for instance persuasion skills on the workplace combined with recognition of your merits. Be sure that it is do-able! Wanting significantly more pay but lacking any incentive to change bad working habits into delivering high quality work in return is unlikely to bring the expected result, unless you are putting a love trend on the boss simultaneously.

c) Select the appropriate filters from a card pack, radionics program, or filters made by yourself. Add your specific wishes and modifications to it.

d) Put these filters onto the well.

e) Go through steps a) through f) in the previous chapter.
f) There are two methods that you can apply now:
(1) The radionics approach: Keep the device active till you are successful
(2) The “ceremonial” approach: View the operation as a ceremonial. You perform it, generate the energy field that continues to be active in your cause, then turn the device off and allow the energy field to continue working on it. Repeat this action day by day, about one hour each time, till the result is achieved.

How long will it take to be successful?

If you have read the info given in this manual, you know what the basis for your success is:

1. Sufficient life force (from your device)
2. Precise structural links to trend and target, and
3. A strong mental connection to your device and to your intent.

This means that your attitude towards the operation that you are performing is crucial for your success. Doubts concerning the success of your operation and lack of trust in your capabilities are detrimental to the success of your work. If, on the other hand, you have a positive attitude and you are convinced that the envisioned result will manifest sooner or later, then you increase the chances of success significantly!

In case you notice doubts or negative attitude, you can counteract it with autogenic training, positive thinking and affirmations that you can also support with the orgone radionics device.

Normally you can expect the results within a period of time that is commensurable with the situation that you intend to change.

We are confident that you will have abundant success!

3. Examples of success strategies and effective trend management (For advanced users who intend to reach the top!)

When beginning to use the combination of Welz Chi Generators® and radionics devices, or orgone radionics™ devices, naturally most persons are very successful with it. This is so, because it works for most things that they envisioned originally without prior training. Very often the reason for this is that it gives the little extra push in situations that have long been evolving, that were ready to manifest, and where a minor adjustment that has been overlooked, perhaps more intensity (emotional energy, life force), was still necessary to succeed.

Sometimes however, there are instances when the best efforts seem to fail. This usually happens later, and a few operators of the devices have experienced this challenge right at the beginning. When this happens, the main reasons for failure are:

1. Misjudgment of availability
2. Misjudgment of the situation
3. Misjudgment of personal capability
4. Misjudgment of personal attitudes and unawareness of personal interferences, idealism, etc.,
5. Misjudgment of subconscious blockages and subconscious interferences
6. Misjudgment or unawareness of interferences from the people-environment and outside interferences
7. Misjudgment of the “climatic background of trends” and cultural environment at the time of the operation

Here we will deal first with the various reasons for delays or even failures in general and give you an idea of how to develop a success strategy from a thorough analysis of the challenges that you face. Later we will continue to work on specific areas where failure can occur and replace them with appropriate success strategies. This will help you to work with specific examples. Based on this experience you will then be able to develop the most effective methods to achieve success even in challenging situations.

Finally, we transform, in general terms, these challenges to a “wheel of success” where you find the preconditions that you need to establish when going for supreme success in any field!

3.1. The pitfalls in more detail: Examples

Here we are dealing point by point with the roots of the difficulty, i.e., the various misjudgments of important facets of any failed operation.

3.1.1. Misjudgment of availability

Examples:

a) Attempts to get the one and only one big win in a lottery. For instance, if there is only one grand prize in a lottery, only one person will get it, no matter how many people are using equipment to get that big one. Well known are of course the massive interferences when someone attempts to beat incredible odds to get some of these famous jack pots! Even if you can use the equipment to up your odds three fold, even ten fold, you would need to wait a statistical average of 100,000 drawings instead of 1 million drawings to get such a “big one”. So it will work, provided that you give it enough time and a substantial investment of money. Of course, statistical averages are statistical averages. You may hit it as well tomorrow with a single ticket! Some of the gods to whom “wannabee” winners pray must be quite annoyed, considering that of a million or so prayers to them for the “big one” all are doomed to fail, with the exception of one, provided, of course, that a person who prayed gets that big one and not one who has an orgone radionics device!

b) Attempts to get a specific famous person as a lover. This situation is similar to the one as above (availability of the big win), especially if the would-be lover has nothing to offer in return (as is usually the case) and is one of the many others who bug those folks with that annoying “fan” mail, which their secretaries rightfully ditch. I knew one person who wanted Ted Turner and stressed that she had the greatest ideas of how he could be even more successful in business. Naturally, she overlooked the “little detail” that she had not the business savvy to afford more than living in a dump! A season ticket for a seat close to her “target” in the baseball arena did as little as the many spells and rituals that she performed.

c) Attempts to strike it rich in a business venture that promises wealth to its marks, but that’s in the main established and structured to bring some wealth to the corporation only which sells these “opportunities”. Typically, most MLM (multi level marketing) scams fall into this category.

3.1.2. Misjudgment of the situation

Examples:

a) Attempts to draw a partner who loves city life, wanting that she/he exchanges that for primitive conditions in the country with nothing in return.

b) Attempts to draw a specific partner for sex only if that person has extreme reservations against that, possibly also subconscious fears, etc

3.1.3. Misjudgment of personal capability

Examples:

a) Attempts to “get money fast” when absolutely no skill can back up that wish

b) Attempts to be immediately successful in a profession of which the operator has little or no experience at all. If you want to be successful a doctor, you need to have learned the skill and received your licenses previously - or (hopefully not) be skilled in faking it. Standing in front of a mirror, visualizing “your goals” won’t cut it, unless backed by skills that have to be learned, including the skills to make and hold money. Ever heard of the person who, after a weekend motivational seminar for which she paid $600.00, stood in front of her mirror for weeks, repeating “medicine, medicine, medicine, …” hoping that she would be an MD soon?

c) Attempts to draw a partner for sex when the operator him/herself is incapable to that - for whatever reason.

d) Attempts to get a top of the line lover when looking like a dog, lacking personal hygiene, lacking manners and lacking other items that such a partner would like to see

e) Attempts to make a big showing in music without the skills to play an instrument, without charisma and without capability to deal with producers once the window of opportunity is open

3.1.4. Misjudgment of personal attitudes and unawareness of personal interferences

Examples:

a) When trying for wealth, the attitude that it is undeserved.

b) When trying for love, the attitude that it is bad, or worse, an obsession for a specific person.

c) When trying to hold a lover, to be unreasonably jealous and demanding.

d) When trying to get a lover back, obsession that obscures everything else. Think of someone who is obsessed with a specific women (a weakness that is radiated out, most of the time), is timid (another weakness), lacks personal hygiene, is outright filthy, etc. Imagine that this person hopes that setting a device will cause that lady (who, like most sane persons, neither wants weak partners, nor timid ones, nor stinking ones that obviously don’t care about their appearances) to knock at the door the same midnight, asking him to go to bed with her. Well, that will not work and the energy radiated out can have exactly the opposite effect, since it likely can cause the woman think of a filthy pig and is annoyed.

3.1.5. Misjudgment of subconscious blockages and subconscious interferences

Examples:

a) Subconscious fears and ideas that were instilled during the course of education or that resulted from traumatic experiences.
b) The fear of sex and healthy relationships that resulted from severe abuses in childhood

3.1.6. Misjudgment or unawareness of interference from the environment

Examples: peer pressure, religion, hostility of people whose help is needed

3.1.7. Misjudgment of the “climatic background of trends” at the time of the operation

Examples: This is similar to the above and it concerns more the trends that are going on in society at the time of operation. Trying to sell stocks at a high price at times when the stock marked is bearish will not work. Trying to sell propane gas for heating in summer at winter prices will also be very difficult to do. Attempts to strike it rich quick in a profession for which there is no demand in society: Ever played with the idea of selling 100 coaches with horses to be used in the center of New York?

Often the problems are less obvious, especially when the operator has to deal with challenges that concern wishes that seem more available, more legit. Sometimes such operators begin to work on desires and wishes for things that they do not really want. A thorough analysis of one’s own desires is necessary in such a situation. The equipment certainly can help finding out subconscious blockages, legitimate as well as irrational ones. As far as irrational blockages are concerned, they can be re-directed and actually be useful in other activities, where their impact matters, while “staying away” from the activities in which you want to be successful.

In “old language” (coming from times when nothing whatsoever was known to humans about the subconscious and its function), such irrational, often self destructive, actions have been seen differently. People thought of them as coming from the “mysterious wisdom, will and ways” of a deity. In such a case, the religious conditioning of the “I don’t deserve” type plays a big part. They can also attribute failures to the continuous foul play of “entities, demons, ancestors” or the like that according to these belief structures act outside the individual or act as “attachments” from within. The practice to deal with these situations consisted of getting rid of the entities. The tasks of such entities were often re-assigned. Another practice was to replace them with stronger entities that are more sympathetic to the wishes of the person in question.

You can use the equipment regardless what type mapping you prefer. Sometimes animistic thinking of personified entities is more useful, at others the mapping of subconscious parts of the personality, and at others the mapping that deals with trends as energy fields that in many cases have a characteristic of personification. In any one of these approaches, when re-assigning tasks, analysis of mechanisms of failure and the setting up of specific success strategies can be a decisive help in achieving your goals. Again, your equipment helps not only in these tasks, but also in assuring permanence of the results. In any one of these approaches (animistic mappings of “entities”, the more recent mapping of a “subconscious”, or a more dynamic mapping that involves fields of “trend energy” that surround you, or a combination of all), the effects will be the same if you develop a good success strategy for the result that you wish to manifest.

3.2. Potential Solutions - the wheel of success!

1. Check for availability. Make sure that what you intend to achieve is doable
2. Analyze the situation and the potential for success it offers
3. Determine personal capability and readiness for the task. If missing, generate ways of the quickest possible achieving of capability.
4. Analyze personal attitudes and your own interferences, idealism, etc. If necessary, take steps to overcome them. Exhibit a positive attitude!
5. Be aware of subconscious blockages and subconscious interferences. Set up operations to re-assign them, if needed
6. Be aware of interferences from the people-environment and outside interferences. Counteract peer pressure and magickal interference from other people.
7. Generate a positive “climatic background of trends” and deal with the religious-cultural environment at the time of the operation.

All this has to be done before you begin with the actual operation. Just one of these points ignored, misjudged, and not acted upon (ideally with the help of your equipment) can be a reason for failure of the operation! If needed, set your device to help you taking stock of the challenge and to build your wheel of success!

Any type interference can develop into a reason for failure.

Change and ultimate results will manifest, of course, as soon as you can analyze the true nature of the challenge, its various aspects and, based on that, put appropriate success strategies into motion such as changes in attitude, changes in appearance and acquiring of the skills needed.
Success strategies are very helpful in developing a winning attitude and the inner feeling that’s so necessary for any type of success. It is a well-known fact that, whenever there is a clash between the will to achieve a specific result and conscious or sub-conscious expectations and attitudes towards that outcome, the latter will almost always win out over sheer will power.

Conversely, once you adjust your attitudes and expectations, conscious and non-conscious ones, towards a goal, then sheer will power is of secondary importance or not needed at all. Above all, be pragmatic in your approach! Rather than aiming at a goal that’s way ahead of your status quo, compromise, approach your goal persistently step by step, and success will be forthcoming soon!

To set in motion a change of your inner expectations and attitudes is relatively easy, especially with the equipment that you have available now.

Now let’s go to the practical part: I will introduce you to some typical pitfalls that invariably lead to unsuccessful outcomes and then to success strategies that can overcome these challenges and ultimately lead to the success that you desire.

3.3. The fat-buster: success strategies in weight control, or: how to get the physique that you have always wanted!

Weight control is a typical example of negative outcome where there is a clash between will and imagination/expectation. In fact, huge industries are thriving around that rather sad situation by shamelessly exploiting it.

Let’s get it straight first: fat is part of us. It is storage of energy reserves that will be used in times of inadequate food supply. As a temporary measure, this seems fine and natural. Gross overweight, on the other hand, has long been proven to be a considerable health risk.

Therefore, if you want to lose weight, you simply use up your reserves, no less and no more is required!

Seems simple, and yet, most people have serious problems of getting rid of their excess pounds.

It is possible that humans do not have much of a genetic protection against over-eating, and most certainly most of them act that way. That, at least, is what some people contend. Perhaps that’s correct and not a lead-in publicity stunt to ready the general population for some of the more esoteric methods of genetically engineered “treatment”.

It is useful to look at another facet of the problem. First of all, there are enough people out there who “manage” to maintain a fairly normal body weight even in times of plenty. Secondly, countries where there is ample food advertising show an excessive tendency towards gross overweight of huge parts of their populations, while in countries with plenty of food supply, but much less food advertising, such a problem does not exist. This is a situation that does not necessarily support the assumption (or cop-out) of the “genetic scapegoat”. A good example is Europe, where all of a sudden gross overweight became rampant. All of a sudden? Well, this development “coincidentally coincided” with the “invasion” of the fast-junk-food industry.

In the US some 75% of TV advertising is geared towards food, almost always the rather unhealthy and fattening fast food garbage. Even in soap operas the “heroes” with whom the viewers so happily identify are eating quite a bit. If it did not work, the food industry would not go to the massive expense of working on expectation and imagery of the audiences. As a consequence of it working well, people eat more, get fatter, and equally fatten the coffers of a ruthless industry of death and disease.

Counteracting the impact of food commercials should be the first and foremost strategy to help an overweight person. Having seen and read thousands of commercials coming from the slim-down industry, I have not noticed a single one that describes the impact of food advertising. Strong vested interests (besides simple ignorance of the facts) may cause the slimming-industry’s advertisers and executives from addressing that problem. It is certainly more profitable to thrive on guilt-feelings of the fat and not so fat people addressed by the commercials than working towards removing the root causes of gross obesity. Such action, in fact, would reduce the customer-base and market share, of course! People may then also become aware that it’s not some esoteric fat-burning formulas, fast slimming fake-foods that are loaded with chemical junk, self-assertions, costly diets, surgery, 10-minutes a day exercise machines, etc. that lead to lasting success. Quite to the contrary, simply using-up the stored energy (speak: fat), either by being more active or by supplying the body with less energy reserves (speak: food), or both, appears to be the most effective and cost efficient method! The only recommendation during such times would be that the person takes sufficient vitamins and minerals, ideally not the synthetic garbage, so that there is no lack of essential substances that are needed for the proper functioning of the body.

Let’s sum it up:

Potential problems:
1. Clash of expectation/imagination with will power.
2. The expectation of being powerless, mostly promoted by the food industry, but also as a “hidden expectation” in the slim-fast-down industry, will prevail over the will of the individual to lose fat. Have you ever noticed that absurdly fat person sipping on a diet drink or, worse yet, a shake of slim-quick junk first, and then gorging him or herself on half a gallon of ice cream and three MacDoodoo Burgers?
3. Paying customers remain paying customers for both branches of industry, provided that they remain fat!

Potential solutions:
1. Reduce impact of advertising from both industries. The best method is to develop inner strategies and mechanisms that create exactly the opposite of what the designers of the commercials intend to do. If possible, boycott all their products. This is definitely not intended as a message for “them”, but a working tool for you to trigger a change of attitude in your mind.
2. Develop a set of expectations and inner imagery that favors weight control.
3. Finally, develop strategies to use up the energy reserve of the body, i.e., the layers of fat. This can only be done successfully after points 1 and 2 have been activated and completed successfully, otherwise this can turn out to be too difficult a task, perhaps even useless!
4. These success strategies can be set in motion very effectively when set up as trends with your orgone radionics™ equipment.

A Few Potential Mistakes:
1. Putting “I want to lose weight” in the machine, implying just that, i.e., that you WANT to lose weight.
2. Working with methods that do not address the basic problem of inner attitudes, expectation and self-image.
3. Lack of effective strategies against the impact of food advertising.
4. Guilt-feelings about overweight, using sheer will power alone.

Suggested procedure:
1. Work towards immunity against food advertising: There is an appropriate filter available.
2. Develop a concentrated intent to have the perfect weight. Work on the attitude and the confidence that you can do it!

3. Enjoy food! Enjoy it every time you eat it, enjoy every bite, and most importantly enjoy it only in quantities that fit the plan and at pre-determined times. It is also useful not to enjoy it at other times while you are on the plan.
4. Adjust the plan to what your body can handle with ease. For some people just one pound a week is optimal, others can handle a lot more. Put an inner-eco-check into your setup. Ideally consult with a physician or health professional as to what goal you should set.
5. Set up a follow-up plan that corrects the habits for good and does not allow relapses.

A good psychic friend of mine once stated the following: Basically, there are two reasons for which people come for advice to psychics: the two "aids", namely getting laid and getting paid!

Sometimes, then, the customer comes home from a psychic or from a $800.00 weekend seminar, enriched with deepest knowledge of past lives, transgressions in past lives and karmic guilt accumulated therein, spirits of ancestors sucking off energy and the like. He or she knows now, or thinks to know, about soul mates, past and present, of pink rays, of curses from lodges with which they were involved in a past life, perhaps even of curses put onto their mother that by some quirk of destiny attached themselves to the offspring. At times long dead and totally unknown ancestors of 20 generations in the past (enough generations to have ten million offspring, even more!) are blamed for misfortune in life, who are trying to take him over. From other sources comes the deepest knowledge of (freely invented) "secret history of humankind" and bad karma collected during those olden times, and a host of other "great illuminations". This can easily distract from the basic problem for a while, even have people work (for the religious outfit, of course!) to atone for past life transgressions that likely never existed, and usually it does not overcome the challenge!

Other good moneymakers, usually not for the attendants, but solely for the organizers, are motivational weekend seminars where the attendants are taught to awaken the giant within and the like. Teachers are all too often hailing their own greatness and tell that they have made it by exactly following that which they teach. Fact is, if someone does not have the skills to play tennis, she needs to acquire them. Standing in front of a mirror repeating "I am a great tennis player" over and over again and hoping to win the Wimbledon tournament this way is as silly as standing in front of the mirror, seeing oneself writing big checks, living in million dollar homes and driving around in sports cars that are loaded with several lovers.

All this reminds me very much of the situation that I described with fat burning and a fitness industry that in some way is part of the problem rather than part of the solution! Blaming a have-not person for being in a bad financial situation usually is a distraction that does not deal with the real problem. The same can be said about the many “esoteric” reasons with which such an individual is confronted. The “esoteric clergy” proffering such reasons is not much better than the clergy of established religion who shove “God’s will” down the throat of their sheep who in turn willingly and happily fatten the clerical treasuries with tithes.

For the person who is serious about success it is time to get the facts straight: Poverty is in the main a socio-economic problem. In fact, it’s even more so than gross overweight! If you want riches, you need to eliminate the impact of socio-economic conditioning first and foremost and then you need to actually acquire the skills to handle wealth! No, I am not talking about changing the system. If the system was fair to all, there would not be excessive wealth at all. If you want excessive wealth, be aware of the functions of the socio-economic system in which you live (and which in fact does allow individuals to have that unfair edge of excessive wealth) and use these functions to get where you want to be! In other words: this is a system that certainly can work in your favor as soon as you learn to use it rather than allowing to be used by it! Feeling guilty about that? Then you are still stuck inside and victimized by the “equality-trap” that helps so nicely all those folks who are just a bit “more equal” than you and who thoroughly love that additional “equality”! Let’s face it: Inequality is part of the human species, no matter what idealists or equality-mongers (that are backed by vested interests) are trying to teach you - and so are the resulting socio-economic structures in which we live! You can either live up to this fact and use the existing situation and your innate human characteristics to get ahead, or you can decide to remain the runt of the pack for the rest of your life. The choice is yours, of course! Fact is, you have the equipment that can help you getting that “unfair” (a word used by people whose intent is to keep you in your subordinate place) advantage when you set your course to reach your maximum potential of wealth, power, and/or political influence. Use it! At the same time, be aware that a human being does not end with the surface of the skin. As human beings, we are “us and our environment”! When we poison our environment with arrogance, bad action, abuse of power, etc, we ultimately poison ourselves! The runts of the pack are part of your environments, necessary contributors to your success! Respect them, especially when you reach the top! This makes the difference between a good leader and a bad leader.

Before you can deal with such questions, you need to get there. For that you need to de-program yourself and learn the skills that you need to get to the top. Once such skills are in place, you can open opportunities for yourself, and then learn additional skills, etc, step by step all the way to the top. Naturally, the development of successful strategies for business success, wealth, and political power is more complex than was developing a strategy for weight control. Use your orgone radionics setup to maximize this task, and then use the device to open opportunity and to help you get to the top.

Below you find a list of points to consider. Use what you consider appropriate for your situation.

Situation analysis for wealth, power, leadership, people skills

Get facts straight about society and socio-economic environment!

Get the facts straight and study human characteristics. We are a predator society of leaders and runts.

Get the facts straight about education. Have you ever noticed during your education that school kids from influential parents get away with things that others never would get away with? Don’t moan about it, learn from it! Schools fit people into roles of leaders and runts. Therefore, the education of “social skills” is more important than the teaching of other skills! The structure of the leadership of super-tribes (nations) is similar to the structure of tribes. Niches for dominant people who do not make it politically: Leadership in business, in organizations, control of wealth, professional leadership, etc.

Getting things done vs. “being nice”

Your situation: taking stock and setting goals

Set long-term goals

Set short-term goals

Establish what skills you need for these goals, what skills are demanded; what changes of attitude you need to be successful. Follow through with action and boost it with radionics. Consider alternatives with similar basic demands, if availability of your goal is low. “Tremendous financial success from an unexpected source …” the use of wild cards, advantages and disadvantages

Set yourself up that you enjoy that which you are doing.
Potential Basic problems and mistakes
The runt mentality, a result of the educational process: in school, people “learn their place” in a hidden curriculum! Check out how it afflicted you and avoid the pitfalls
The impact of religion: “you have to work hard to earn your daily bread” (have you ever met a priest or preacher doing just that?)
Lack of knowledge of communications
Assuming “giftedness” rather than skills - and giving up

Using strong points of your situation
Set yourself up to get the right strategy as much as possible and as often as possible
Set yourself up to get viable opportunities.
Be ready for a big change
Make sure that the changes will be profitable as well
Figure out the time to acquire skills

Going step by step - a plan for yourself
Learn communicative skills, Boost learning of communicative skills
Learn to read people
Learn to read the body language of others
Learn to influence people
Acquire power mimicry
Develop opportunities where you can use and refine such skills progressively:
Determine the direction that you take: get ahead first using the skills that you have while acquiring new skills, then the next step with the acquired skills, and so on. Acquire skills and earn while learning, if possible
Boost charisma and other skills
Use equipment to boost your position of power in specific situations
Get increasingly into the procedures of the chosen business, become proficient in methods of marketing, manufacturing, or running the business.

3.5. Business Consulting, Success Consulting
You can contact professionals that are affiliated with HSCTI who can assist you in very complex situations. The service can be a one-time consultation for a very specific situation or it can be a long-term service, for instance in a business. This consulting service generally involves analysis and proposals of very specific complex situations. Our consultants calculate their fees based on the time spent in their service for you.

When contacting us, please tell us of the nature of your request: whether one-time, such as in a complex challenge in a business, or long-term, such as consulting a business or politician. We will direct your inquiry to the specialist who is most capable to help you handle your situation.

From time to time, we offer training seminars in success strategies. Let us know of your interest in attending one or more of these seminars.
